Fear 91 Men Are Doomed in West Virginia Mine Disaster

Hope Is Virtually Given Up for Men Trapped in Mine

25 Bodies Are Brought to the Surface On Friday

66 STILL MISSING
May Be Nation's Worst Mine Disaster Since 1928

BARTLEY, West Va. —(P)—With more than a score known to be dead the Pond Creek-Panhandle Coal corporation Friday virtually gave up hope for the survival of any of the 91 men trapped in Wednesday's explosion of the Bartley No. 1 mine.

Twenty-five of the bodies have been found, leaving 66 still missing.

Death of the 91 would make the Bartley explosion the nation's worst mine disaster since 1928 when 195 were killed in 1928 at Mather, Pa.

Hope and Fear

As the rescue crews pressed within a few hundred feet of the spot where the men were believed caught behind twisted timbers and tons of slate, rock and coal, G. J. Stollins, general manager of the company, said:

"We're hopeful that possibly 50 or 60 can be found alive."

But veteran miners who have witnessed many of these disasters—fearing all or most of the men had perished—"It looks bad," said Carl J. Dickerson, one of the rescue workers, on a trip from the shaft.

The blast centered about a mile and a quarter back in a corridor that leads from the main shaft, which is perpendicular. Cause of the explosion has not been determined.

Shifts Every 30 Minutes

Scores of miners and relatives of the entombed men gather near the shaft opening and stand in a cold drizzle, watching gloomily as the eight rescue crews changed shifts every 30 minutes.

Onlookers and rescue squads were fed from a kitchen manned by Mrs. Alonzo Barnett, 21 mother of four children, whose husband was one of those still in the mine.

Nevada Farm Body to Elect Officers

Farm Bureau to Meet at Prescott Saturday at 1 p. m.

The annual election of the officers and directors of the Nevada County Farm Bureau will be held at the court house at Prescott at 1:30 p. m. on Saturday, January 13.

This meeting was scheduled the same afternoon as the out-look meeting for those interested in attending would be the minimum.

All members of the Farm Bureau are urged to attend the meeting and be studying about officers for 1940.

L. W. Buchanan has stated that conditions have arisen which will prevent him from holding office in the organization this year.

Catchy Words
Don't let these words trick you. They might, if you're not careful. Don't let the first black faced word throw you off. It's put there just to confuse you. All you need to worry about in each sentence is to pick the correct meaning for the second word in black face.

1. Invocation means "a way of making living," then invocation means (a) profession, (b) hobby, (c) pear ranch, (d) art of loafing.

2. If version means "trans," translation, then aversion means (a) edition, (b) bridge, (c) antipathy, (d) amiability.

3. If inter means "to shut in," then inter means (a) release, (b) go between, (c) question, (d) entomb.

4. If inclement means "un settled," then inclement means (a) pleasant, (b) increase, (c) burial ground, (d) cool.

5. If succulent means "juicy," then succulent means (a) sweet, (b) bold, (c) savage, (d) lonely.

Cabinet Also May Fall Because of Trade Relations

TOKYO, Japan.—(P)—Premier General Nobuyuki Abe announced Friday he would resign Sunday, bearing out predictions that his government would fall if the United States failed to react favorably to Japanese proposals for the reopening of the lower Yangtze river to third power trade.

The entire cabinet is expected to resign.

Funeral On Friday for Mrs. Morrison

Body of Former Hope Woman Returned Here for Burial

Mrs. J. D. Morrison, 60, a native of Hope, died at her home in Memphis, Tenn., Thursday afternoon following an illness of several months. She was a sister of Tom Kinser of this city.

The body was brought to Hope where funeral services were to be held at 3:30 o'clock Friday afternoon at Herndon-Cornelius Funeral Home on South Main. Burial was to be in Rose Hill cemetery.

Surviving are her husband, three brothers, Tom Kinser of Hope; J. A. Kinser of Little Rock and Dave Kinser of Pine Bluff; a sister, Mrs. Tom Hinton of Texarkana; and two daughters.

Water Follies to Open at Saenger

Big Task in Setting Up Swimming Pool on Stage

"Raynel's Water Follies," which is opening its engagement at the Saenger Theater, arrived Friday morning in a caravan equipped with the latest regulation motion picture sound equipment.

The company stage crew has worked continuously since eight o'clock Friday morning setting up a six thousand gallon, portable swimming pool. This portable pool is a metal tank twelve feet in diameter and six and one-half feet high.

The swimming pool is lined with heavy canvas to hold the vast amount of water. The tremendous tank is so constructed that each section can rapidly be assembled. It is estimated that it will take three hours to fill the swimming pool conveying water from a two inch pipe line from the stage of the Saenger.

The diving platforms and swimming pool will remain permanently on the stage throughout the engagement. The picture sheet, of screen, will be placed in its usual spot on the stage. The screen will be in front of the tank and diving platforms.

The company stage crew expressed their astonishment in finding the tremendous stage awaiting them at the Saenger. The citizens of Hope and the surrounding trade territories will be able to get a general idea of the vastness of this mammoth stage by knowing that all this assembly of swimming equipment for the "Water Follies" is set behind the screen.

The dimensions of the huge Saenger stage is 40 feet by 58 feet with a height of 140 feet. All scenery and the screen can be raised above the stage line in four minutes.

The vaudeville company has brought

Funeral Services Will Be Held at 10 a. m. Saturday

Dr. F. O. Wood, 77, retired DeAnn physician, died at 5 o'clock Friday morning after an illness of about eight years.

He had been a practicing physician about 50 years and covered many miles of territory in both Hempstead and Nevada counties. Ill health forced him into retirement about eight years ago.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a. m. Saturday at the DeAnn Baptist church, with burial in the DeAnn cemetery. The Rev. W. H. Stingley will have charge of the services, assisted by the Rev. Mr. Samuel.

Dr. Wood is survived by his widow.

Mystery Surrounds Death of Miss Beulah Byrley, 21

MALVERN, Ark.—(P)—The crushed body of Miss Beulah Byrley, about 21, of Malvern was found on the highway one mile south of here Thursday night.

Prosecutor W. H. Glover started an investigation of her death, asserting that he was not convinced that the young woman was a victim of a hit and run driver.

The prosecutor said she was found by a passing motorist only a few minutes after she had been seen at a dance hall nearby. He said the condition of her body did not indicate that she had been struck by a motor vehicle.

Juvenile Crime Topic of Address By Dr. A. C. Kolb

20 Percent of Crime Is Charged to Youth Under Age of 20

ADDRESS P. T. A. Advocates Teaching of Morals in Public Schools

Juvenile delinquency and the nation's enormous crime toll was the topic of an address delivered Thursday afternoon by Dr. A. C. Kolb of Hope before the Parent-Teacher Association at the high school building.

He quoted city authorities as saying that juvenile delinquency in Hope was serious enough that "we should begin to think about doing something in regard to it."

He called upon the parents and teachers to educate against crime and advocated the teaching of morals in the public school system. He pointed out that such school systems as Denver, Colo., Louisville, Ky., Cleveland, Ohio, and some others are considering this question at this time.

Launching into his address, Dr. Kolb classified crime, giving its definition, the cause of crime, the prevention of crime and the challenge to the public in general.

Dr. Kolb's Address
"Juvenile delinquency is crime committed by youth. It is an unlawful act committed against the person or property of a citizen or of the state itself, and punishable by the courts of proper jurisdiction."

"Crime is either major or minor in character. It is also classified as felony or misdemeanor."

"In 1935 there were 12,000 murders committed in the United States."

"There are approximately 3,500,000 persons actively engaged in crime in this country of which 20 per cent of that number, or 700,000, are boys and girls under the age of 20."

"There are more than 1,500,000 felonies committed each year. The majority of first offenders are between the ages of 14 and 18."

"About 24 per cent of all persons committed to penitentiaries are under the age of 21 years. Only this week I talked to our city attorney and our deputy prosecuting attorney and they both told me that the problem of juvenile delinquency in our city was serious enough that we should begin to think about doing something in regard to it."

Cost of Crime
"Our total annual crime bill is estimated to be more than 15 billions of dollars. It is difficult to estimate it with the loss of property, its grief and misery—to say nothing of the enormous cost of police work, courts and the cost of feeding and clothing prisoners."

Touching on the causes of crime, Dr. Kolb pointed to poverty, degeneracy, parental neglect and the general public attitude toward law enforcement and moral issues.

Referring to parental neglect, he mentioned gambling, drinking, minor law violations committed by parents before the eyes of their children.

He mentioned incompatibility between parents such as quarrels, entrusting the care of children to servants while parents attend social affairs away from home.

He said that non-enforcement of family rules and regulations often caused the child to rebel at parental authority—and if it does not learn to obey and respect home authority it

Baker Sought Make Million Dollars in One Year's Time

Hospital Founder Said to Have Called His Clients "Suckers"—Charges Dropped Against Three Defendants

LITTLE ROCK.—(P)—A government witness in the Norman Baker "cancer cure" trial in federal district court testified Thursday that Baker, founder of hospitals, radio stations and publications used in promoting the "cure" had told him he expected to "make a million" in a year's time, and that he had employed the word "suckers" in this connection.

The witness was M. N. Bunker of Linn Creek, Mo., who said he had conducted a handwriting-analysis program for a short time in 1934 over XENT, the powerful Baker radio station at Nuevo Laredo, Mexico.

The defense attempted to establish that Baker had been "put off the air" by Baker because the latter disapproved of the program. Bunker insisted he had terminated the connection himself because of a disagreement with Baker "over ethics."

A Baker hospital was being operated at the time at Muscatine, Iowa. "Did Baker say anything to you about what he would get out of the suckers of America?" asked District Attorney Sam Roney.

"He said if he could keep the hospital and the radio station open a year he would make a million out of it," the witness replied.

"Did he use the term suckers?" Bunker testified.

The government interrupted the trial in mid-afternoon to move the dismissal of mail fraud charges, based on the cancer-cure advertisements, for three of the eight defendants, announcing that evidence developed was insufficient to warrant their continued trial.

Those freed by the government's motion were: Miss Irma Bar of Muscatine, sister of Norman Baker; Dr. W. S. Hutto, formerly of the hospital staff now of Clinton, Ark.; and Dr. John N. Conway, former staff member, now of Des Moines, Iowa.

Remaining on trial were: Norman Baker, R. A. Bellows, superintendent of the Baker hospital, at Eureka Springs, Ark.; Dr. O. L. Beatty, chief of staff at Eureka Springs; Dr. J. L. Staller, of the hospital staff; and H. L. Fisher, described by the witnesses as an attorney for the operating corporation.

Locals Will Open Conference Campaign Next Tuesday

Coach Foy Hammons used more than two teams to swamp Blevins basketball team here Thursday night, 60 to 16, in the first home game of the season.

The Bobcats whipped Prescott Wednesday night in the first contest for the Hope squad.

The Bobcats will open their conference campaign at Hope next Tuesday night against the strong El Dorado Wildcats.

There will be no conference tournament this year, the championship to be determined on a percentage basis of season play—like the football championship.

Teams competing for the conference title must play 12 conference games to become eligible for the crown race. Coach Hammons has 10 games already on schedule.

Farm Federation Seeks More Money

WASHINGTON.—(P)—President Roosevelt got a request from the American Farm Bureau Federation for a $634,000,000 increase in his proposed expenditures next fiscal year for agricultural purposes.

Edward A. O'Neal, president, and other federation officials called at the White House to tell Mr. Roosevelt they would "insist" that congress provide the money, which they figured was the amount needed to bring the buying power of farmers, as compared with that of producers of non-agricultural commodities, up to the pre-World war level.

Louisiana Political Campaign Nears Climax With Huge "Convict Parade" at New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS.—(P)—Louisiana's turbulent gubernatorial campaign neared its climax Thursday night with appearance on venerable old Canal street of a "convict parade" in which many of the state's nighties politicians were depicted clothed in stripes, breaking rocks and cutting sugar cane.

James H. Morrison, noisy 31-year-old gubernatorial candidate and a sworn enemy of the administration machine Huey P. Long built here, broke from a sick bed to lead the bizarre aggregation of lawless farmers of his home district down the street lined with gaping thousands. He is suffering from influenza.

Canal street was jammed from storefront to storefront, and progress of the procession was retarded as the people were pushed into the path of the floats. Police estimated the crowd at more than 100,000 and some residents said it was "bigger than Mardi Gras," when many more than that pack the city's main thoroughfare.

The lead float of 25 depicted Mayor Robert S. Maestri of New Orleans, the state's most powerful politician, sitting solidly on the closed and padded lovelocks of the state department of conservation which he headed before becoming mayor. Local newspapers and various citizens' groups have been clamoring for six months to see these books, which were closed to public scrutiny last June when Long became governor. The explanation was they were being audited.

Opposition candidates have charged on the stump that a new set of books are being written.

The parade has been used as Morrison's backdrop throughout the state. It was manned by strawberry farmers whom he helped get better prices through a co-operative organization. They acted in the convict roles of politicians the common man stood in awe of a half year ago.

It was a reflection of the widespread federal investigation in Louisiana since last June, which has resulted in conviction on mail fraud charges of Seymour Weiss Abraham L. Shushan, Dr. James Monroe Smith and seven others, indictment on several counts of former Gov. Richard W. Leche, and scores of other persons soon to face trial.

Leche, Shushan, Weiss and many others were not overlooked in the parade, one of the most unusual ever seen in the Mardi Gras city which loves a parade and has seen some of the most unusual in the world when the carnival spirit is upon the people.

Governor Long was given a key position below the Maestri float, where

German Plane Scores Five Direct Hits On Merchantman

WASHINGTON.—(P)—President Roosevelt said Friday he had asked congressional leaders of both parties to work out the problem of giving assistance to Finland.

The chief executive disclosed last Tuesday he was discussing the matter of aid to Finland with the Department of State.

Asked at his press conference Friday whether the conversations had resulted in any decisions, he replied in the negative.

He said, however, the question of assistance to the Finns ought not to become one of partisan politics. In other words, he said, the Russian attack, the destitution of large numbers of people, and the need for maintaining Finnish independence, should not be a party matter over here.

Nazi Planes Sighted

LONDON.—(P)—German bombing planes cruised over British ports Friday for the fourth consecutive day, drawing fierce burst of anti-aircraft fire as they appeared in cloudless skies above Thames Estuary and the Suffolk coast off of Yorkshire.

The raiders were flying at a high altitude and no air raid warnings were sounded and no bombs were dropped.

The British press, noting that the German Air Marshal Goering observed his 47th birthday Friday, described the air raids as his "celebration" which, they said was a "flap."

Finnish airplanes shot the descending troops while they were still in the air, and the others were quickly rounded up after landing, the paper said.

British Ship Sunk

LONDON, Eng.—(P)—The bombing and sinking of the 1,700-ton British steamer Keynes in the North Sea Thursday was disclosed Friday when her crew of 7 was landed at a British port.

Members of the crew said the ship was attacked twice by a German plane which scored five direct hits.

To Buy 12,000 Planes

NEW YORK.—(P)—In preparation for a long war, Britain and France are arranging for the purchase of as many as 12,000 American warplanes in the next two years, authoritative sources said Friday.

With steady shipments of American military planes on contracts signed since the start of hostilities September 3, the Allies expect to exceed the German production rate by the middle of the coming summer.

Representatives of the British Air Ministry have been surveying potential production capacity of every United States aircraft plant turning out military planes. While the British and French have collaborated only on purchase of engines and accessories, it was understood they will buy jointly or so dovetail their purchases as to avoid conflicts in contracts.

To release American aircraft factories manufacturing for export from large-scale commitments on anything but combat types—particularly bombers and pursuit—the British will make training planes in Canada under United States licenses. The first increment will comprise 1,600 trainers, of a type already ordered in some quantity.

Arkadelphia Will Replace Buildings

Most of Structures in $50,000 Fire Total Loss

ARKADELPHIA, Ark.—Owners of three business buildings which were destroyed in a $50,000 fire here Wednesday night said Friday the hours will be rebuilt in the near future.

J. I. Carter, speaking for Mrs. Carter, who suffered the heaviest loss, said both of her buildings, valued at $20,000, will be replaced.

E. W. McClain, said his building, which was a total loss, was worth $5500. He carried approximately $4500 insurance. He said the stock of groceries in the M-System store, which the McClain brothers owned, was worth $4000. This was partly covered by insurance.

J. E. Neel of the Neel grocery said his loss was between $4000 and $5000, with very little insurance being carried. Neel said he planned to go back into business. This store was in a part of the two-story Carter building.

Supreme Court Goes Roosevelt, 5-4

Do you remember, only four years ago, when one of the major national issues was not a war in Europe but the conservatism of the U. S. Supreme Court?

Do you recall all the talk about "nine old men," the bitterness of the administration toward the venerable jurists who tossed out New Deal legislation, including the AAA and the NRA? And the rumors that floated around about how the President was going to "pack" the court by appointing enough new justices to give him a majority over the conservative bloc?

It seems like yesterday; and yet, President Roosevelt has just appointed the fifth New Dealer within a period of less than four years. With the nomination of Attorney General Frank Murphy to the seat left vacant by the death of Justice Pierce Butler, the score in favor of the New Deal is now 5 to 4—even if all of the older members consistently oppose the administration, which they don't.

The new members of the high court are all youngsters, as Supreme Court justices go. The latest appointee is 47 years old. Justice Douglas is 42; Justice Black, 34; Justice Reed, 56, and Justice Frankfurter, 38. Barring untimely deaths or resignations, the Roosevelt influence will remain on the high court bench for many years.

Those four of the Old Guard—Chief Justice Hughes, Justice Stone, McReynolds, and Roberts—must feel a little lonely at times. Since the last presidential election, three resignations and two deaths have cut down the roster of the old court by more than half.

Of course, even before 1937, the Supreme Court was not solidly anti-New Deal. Justice Cordozo, who died, and Justice Brandeis, who resigned, were generally sympathetic toward Roosevelt; and Chief Justice Hughes from time to time cast his vote against the majority. But the liberals were still a minority.

The members of the Supreme Court are appointed for life. They are beyond the influence of politics. Their decisions are made on the basis of whatever interpretations their personal philosophies make of the law.

The law is not absolute. If it were, many of the present duties of the courts would be eliminated. The law is a complicated network of restrictions and licenses placed upon the actions of men. The interpretation depends largely on the jurist's attitude toward the whole of society.

Each Supreme Court justice has a tremendous responsibility toward the nation. Upon the court rests the final judgment on new ideas and processes of government. The new court—strictly a liberal court—may find itself, in years to come, compelled to judge some of the most vital acts in American history.

Examining Tongue is Still a Help in Early Diagnoses of Disturbances

The doctor of a previous generation always looked first at the tongue, because he considered it one of the most important organs in diagnosing constitutional diseases. It is now generally established that a tongue that is dry, dark and furred indicates disease; the tongue that is moist and clean reflects improvement.

We know that the manner in which the tongue protrudes from the mouth may be significant. A tongue that is in a healthy condition can be moved quickly or slowly in all directions, put out straight in the middle line and maintained there and pulled back without trouble.

Nervous people, those with overactivity of the thyroid gland, tend to move the tongue quickly and snappily; those who are dull are likely to have sluggish tongue movements. People who are weak or exhausted or in a slightly stuporous condition will put the tongue out just a little and leave it out until they are told to pull it back.

In paralysis that affects only one side the tongue will push the tongue out and over to the paralyzed side. This sign is seen especially in people who have had a brain hemorrhage or who have lost the function of one side of the brain from some other cause.

The sense of taste is either abolished or abnormally acute in various forms of mental disturbance or of paralysis of certain nerves. People who have paralysis agitans or other forms of nervous disease may have a tongue that is exceedingly tremulous when protruded from the mouth.

This sign is also seen frequently in people who have overindulged in alcohol. The most common coating on the tongue is a sort of a white fur that will put the tongue out just a little and leave it out until they are told to pull it back.

WE THE WOMEN

By RUTH MILLETT

Some day women are going to get fed up with the men who get pleasure out of the beauty and comfort of their wives, the companionship of their wives, and the adoration of their children—and yet give marriage a black eye every chance they get.

Their reason for picking on marriage is obvious. They find it an easy way to build up their own egos. It is like saying, "If I hadn't married I would have been more than I am now. But I gave up my freedom, my individuality, my right to chances for marriage."

Stuff and nonsense. Men marry for the same reason women marry. They are tired of living alone. They want to belong to someone, and to have someone belong to them. They want to have someone who will share good times, and bad. The minute they find a girl who suits them, they fall in love, and don't stop chasing her until she says "All right!"

Then, many of them turn into poor sports. They have what they wanted. They like it. But they hate like poison to admit it.

Careful of Their Egos
It is so much more satisfying to their egos to make cracks about marriage whenever there is an outsider to listen. And to tear down their wives instead of giving them credit for the home they are making and for their loyalty and devotion.

Women have always put up with the attitude. But some day they will get fed up to the point where they will call their husbands' bluff.

"Look, if you think marriage is a poor bargain I'll give you a divorce on one stipulation. That you don't marry again for ten years."

The only thing women need to remember is: Men have the upper hand, and if they didn't want marriage there wouldn't be any such thing as marriage in the world.

I Wish

I wish some day... someone would write a poem that could be as bright as its intent to cheer one up! Too often 'tis a bitter cup. That's apt to sadden... bring on tears...

It teaches, yes; but seldom cheers. A moral good might well be taught. With cheerful thoughts. And leave to naught Those heart strung words that wring and tear.

Our feelings 'till we just despair Of ever having hope again; And live in woe and mental pain. Instead why not try a different trick: Avoid all talk of being sick. And stay on subjects that will shelt The idea of an ailing "self."

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

"The Problem of Forgiveness"
Text Matthew 18:21-35
By WILLIAM E. GILROY D. D.
Editor of Alliance

The title of our lesson is well chosen; forgiveness is a very real problem and one that comparatively few people manage to solve. Many people, especially professing Christians, believe in forgiveness in theory. They are quite sure that forgiveness is a good thing, and they follow all that Jesus has said about it, until there is really something to forgive, and then the teaching and philosophy desert them and they are as bitter and vengeful against anyone who has wronged them as any person of Christian spirit might be.

Others do not accept the philosophy of forgiveness at all, and perhaps this is the more common attitude of the world in general. Even well-meaning people often speak of a man as a "good hater," as if any hater could be good or as if hatred under any circumstances could be a good thing. I suppose what people mean is to approve of intensity of spirit, of implacable refusal to compromise with wrong, etc.; but, nevertheless, there are no circumstances under which hate is a good thing.

The teaching of Jesus has to do largely in this lesson with personal and individual relationships—the sin of man against man. But the need of grasping thoroughly the teaching of forgiveness is greatly emphasized in such a situation as we meet in the modern world, where hatred on a vast scale is either encouraged or is very easily developed within the field of social relationships and in relationships between nations.

In the first World War, Germany sang its "Hymn of Hate" against England; but hymns of hate and attitudes of hate have not been confined to any one nation or to any one conflict. We have in America today too many people who are encouraging the spirit of hatred against those who differ from them in religion, race, or color, and who presume even to do this in the name of religion and the so-called "Christian front."

It is blasphemy against Christ to associate His name with anything that partakes in the least of prejudice and hatred. If the teaching of Jesus is true, the one sure fact is that God is the father of all men without distinction that men are His children without regard to any outward characteristics, and that even sinful men are God's children whom He would redeem from their sin by the power of His love and grace.

Forgiveness is the necessary and sure way of bringing to light something better in human character and conditions. As long as men meet wrong with wrong, violence with violence, and battle with hate, there can be no gain; there may indeed be a real loss. But where someone dares to break this tragic circle of hatred by introducing forgiveness; immediately a new and constructive force enters, healing divisions and dissensions, and tending to establish a new foundation for better relationships.

In a very real sense forgiveness is the foundation of all progress toward better relationship between men and nations. Good is the only force that can really overcome evil.

YESTERDAY: Days pass with no letters from Gilbert. Finally his may check comes. Mary knows now it was only pity that prompted her marriage. She determines to earn her own way, sketching London in war days. Her drawings catch on immediately. Lady Ponce-Townsend asks to exhibit them in her day-fair home.

CHAPTER XVII
STILL breathless after accepting Lady Ponce-Townsend's surprising offer, Mary sat down at the desk before the copy and fire and poured out her thoughts in a letter to Gilbert.

Dear Gilbert:
Your long silence is hard to understand. I do hope you are well and that some day soon I'll find a letter from you.

I'm writing today because I have news that's sure to please you. I have just had a visitor. Lady Ponce-Townsend, remember? She is very active in war relief work, as you know. She heard in some way about the sketches I've been doing and is anxious to give an exhibit of them at her Mayfair home. She intends to charge outrageous prices for admission to raise funds for war refugees.

She wanted me to be at the exhibit, but that, as I emphatically told her, is quite out of the question. I will not face anyone, as you well know, while I am still disgraced. Her Ladyship finally understood and has some notion now of making a mystery of me to lend zest to the exhibit.

Having been so kindly treated as a refugee myself, I'm only too glad if I can repay the debt in a small way. In addition, as Lady Ponce-Townsend pointed out, the exhibit may lead to additional offers for me.

So now, enough about me. You are on my mind constantly. I wonder how you are and all goes well. A letter would be so welcome. As ever, Arma.

The Citadel Hires Rowland As Coach

Former Arkadelphia Mentor Gets One-Year Contract

CHARLESTON, S. C. —(AP)—John M. ("Bo") Rowland, assistant coach at Cornell University, Thursday was named head coach at The Citadel, South Carolina military college. He succeeds Tatum Gressette, resigned, whose 1939 football team won three of 11 games.
Rowland's experience includes seven years as head coach and eight years in line coach or assistant coach positions since his graduation from Vanderbilt University in 1925. At Vanderbilt, Rowland played under Dan McGugin and his assistant, Wallace Wade.
Recommended by McGugin, Rowland took the head coach job at Henderson College, in Arkadelphia, Ark., as a young man of 22, his first year out. After six years there, he was head coach at Ouchita College.
In the seven years, Rowland had three undefeated teams, won three state championships and tied two others. From 1926 to 1931 his teams won 42 games, lost six and tied four. The teams scored 1,164 points to their opponents' 109.
Rowland's next position was line coach at the University of Oklahoma. This he held from 1932 to 1934. In 1935 he was assistant coach at Syracuse and since then had been an assistant coach at Cornell.

Rowland will have a one-year contract in accordance with a South Carolina law governing state institutions. His assistants will be announced when he takes charge.

Territorial Revision Discussed by Leaders
BUCHAREST, Rumania —(AP)—King Carol of Rumania and Regent Prince Paul of Yugoslavia were reported in official circles Friday to have held a secret conference two days ago at Vrso, near the frontier.
Crown Prince Mihai of Rumania and Premier Cvetkovic of Yugoslavia were said also to have attended the meeting.
It is understood King Carol sounded out Prince Paul on Yugoslavia's attitude for a Rumanian promise of territorial revision with Hungary after the current war.

Education First, Warns U. A. Coach

Most Important to Boy, Thomsen Tells Hope Rotary

A high school football player going away to college ought to concentrate first on choosing the profession or business he intends to follow after he should be aware of being "sold down the river" for college athletic exploitation—Fred C. Thomsen, head coach of the University of Arkansas, told Hope Rotary club Friday noon at Hotel Barlow.

An hearing the University of Arkansas mentor's remarks were 30-odd members of Hope High School's 1939 football team, runnerup for the state championship. The boys were guests of the Rotarians at noonday luncheon.

Joe Eason, captain of the 1939 Bobcats, was introduced as the only player in recent times to win a football letter four years. Robert Wilson introduced Eason.

J. P. Duffie, president of Hope School Board, introduced Coach Foy Hammons, who introduced the following: Assistant Coach Bill Brasher; J. W. Sanges, junior coach—and the full Bobcat squad.

Jimmy Jones, Hope High School principal, introduced Coach Thomsen, and, commenting on Thomsen's remark that football has to have boys of better than average intelligence, said that the 1939 Hope squad had a point average of 3.6, "which is considerably better than the average for any football group."

Coach Thomsen made an interesting, and at times dramatic, talk. He acknowledged criticism made of the 1939 season, adding that he had the rather remarkable record of coaching football teams that had lost eight games in the last minute of play in "three years."

"I could tell you of a mistake this player or that one made," said Thomsen, "but that isn't the game of football. To tell such a thing publicly would hurt the boy, and hurt the team."

"After all, we are dealing with boys and young men. There will always be mistakes. And, there will always be human feelings to be reckoned with." Thomsen gave a detailed discussion of the difference between football as played when he was a member of the University of Nebraska Cornhuskers team in the early 1920's, and as it is played today. Nebraska beat Notre Dame in those days, but Thomsen said that style would get nowhere against even a mediocre team today—for today's game relies less on power and more on deception.

Other club guests Friday were: Earl O'Neal, Bill Summerville, S. T. Cook, and School Director Clifford Franks, all of Hope.

Underwear-clad pedestrians carried placards saying they "lost their pants" when they voted for James A. Noe, a former interim governor for four months, and another candidate for governor.

The crowd was in a hilarious mood at the sight of the first float, which showed a man representing Maestri department books with one hand and waving the key to the conversation with the other slapping the reins controlling the messenger boy who pumped ed furiously.

A sign said, "I can't make it, boss." On a float showing a chair, one man tried hard to seat himself in it, but another kept pulling him back. The caption was "Federal Bench Not for eche."

Another float carried a caption: "The Boat the Taxpayers Did Not Give Leche." One float had Uncle Sam casting a fishnet inside which there were various persons. The caption "Uncle Sam Will get 'em in His Net."

"Earl Long won't go far in this wrecked machine" was the caption on a float carrying a broken down automobile.

The "thieves company" float bore a sign: "We steal from churches, tax-payers, hospitals, schools, anyone, any where. We steal anything that is not tied down. Our business is stealing any or night. Give us a trial."

certainly will not have respect and will not obey the law when it gets from under the parental roof.

Parents often will only need to look in the mirror to find the cause of their child's juvenile delinquency. Dr. Kolb declared.

Prevention of Crime

The speaker pointed to three agencies for the prevention of crime, the home, the school and the church. He advocated the proper respect for family rules and regulations, parental restraint from setting improper examples before their children, teaching the proper attitude toward the law and rights of other persons, proper attitude toward religious affairs.

Dr. Kolb referred to the school as a place where children should be educated against crime, must recognize the necessity of discipline and develop citizenship where the home has advocated.

He advocated the teaching of morals in public schools and named several large cities which had this question under advisement at the present time. Referring to the church, he said:

"This government was founded on the principles of the church. The church has always led the way. It stands for the highest ideals in all things. We cannot afford to treat its influence lightly."

The home, the church and the school must unite upon one common purpose.

"There are 2,000,000 junior and intermediate young people in the South alone. They are drifting. The church cannot overlook this challenge."

"Boys clubs throughout the country are doing a great work in the prevention of crime."

"An efficient police department can also help to prevent crime, its grief and misery. Every police officer in the country, I believe, should be a friend to every boy on his beat." Dr.

the dead."

Another sign carried a caption: "From silk hat to stripes."

Reaching Rampart, the parade reversed direction and paraded back to the river, and Morrison began to speak from the corner of St. Charles street.

The Challenge

Dr. Kolb concluded his address by pointing to the challenge of juvenile delinquency and asked the parents and teachers if they would accept this challenge.

feed store in the one-story Carter building, had $2000 or $3000 worth of stock, part of which was burned, the other almost ruined by water and smoke. Albert Neel, who conducted a cream and produce business in this same building, reported a total loss of contents, including 46 live chickens. A soda fountain owned by the Carters and stored here, also was destroyed.

One of the heaviest losers among the lessors of the Carter buildings was the Lion Oil Company. The worth an estimated $5000, was destroyed, also a large amount of oil in metal containers. C. P. Mitchell, local Lion manager, also suffered considerable personal loss. The loss was covered by insurance.

Cause of the early morning conflagration had not been determined. Local firemen and volunteers were assisted in preventing a more serious spread of the flames by several members of the Hot Springs fire department and a pump truck brought from Prescott, about 30 miles southwest of here.

The Anderson-Clayton Cotton company loss could not be ascertained. Besides office furniture there was some material destroyed. The second story of the building was unoccupied.

Hubbell Believes Arm Will Be As Good As Ever in 1940

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK—Here's good news for the poor old New York Giants. Carl Owen Hubbell believes his famous left arm will be as good as ever in 1940.

The great left-hander won only 11 games and lost nine to rank 10th in National League won and lost percentages in 1939, but he was right behind William Henry Walters of the Reds as the No. 2 man in earned runs. King Carl's record for 154 innings, embracing 29 games, was 2.75 per nine innings.

And running second to Bucky Walters, the most valuable man in the circuit, wasn't half bad for an old broken down bloke like the screwball maestro was supposed to be. Walters' earned run mark was 2.29.

Hubbell stood out as Season Closed. Hubbell may not have had the endurance of days gone by, but he still was effective and hard to swing.

His control remained with the best in the business. He yielded only 24 walks. Speaking from Fort Worth, where he is head of an oil production company bearing his name, Hubbell stresses the fact that his flipper kept improving last term until it reached a point where he bagged nine engagements and dropped only two in the last two months of the campaign.

"I told Bill Terry when the season ended that for the first time in my career I wished it was just starting," says Hubbell.

Hub's arm went bad during the early weeks of the 1939 season. A stiffness in the elbow developed into a severe pain.

Operation Corrects Hub's Arm Ailment. After struggling along for four months, the soft-spoken Oklahoman went to Memphis and had Dr. J. Spencer Speed remove from the elbow some chipped bone and a growth of calcium lime.

"Dr. Speed told me that it probably would be a year before I could pitch in my regular turn," explains Hubbell. "He was right. Up until the last two months of last season I could work no more than once in 10 days or so. It took all the time in between to get my arm rested for the next start."

"It was almost a year from the day Dr. Speed performed the operation that I noticed my arm felt good after nine innings. It kept improving."

"I feel certain that it will be all right in the spring."

Freak Deliveries Cause Sore Arms. Hubbell traces the epidemic of arm injuries to freak deliveries which pitchers have to develop to overcome advantages given batters by the rabbit ball and stringent pitching regulations.

"Every bit of baseball legislation in recent years has favored the batter," he points out. "Pitchers of today are just as hardy as the old-timers and probably take better care of themselves, but it wasn't until the early '20s that they had to pitch the live balls we're using to-macaroni, lentils, etc., with him to present at his favorite restaurant.

The choice of dishes is made rapidly. On two days of the week, no meat is to be had. And on other days no restaurant can offer more than half a dozen choices of main dishes.

Meanwhile, the gentleman's faithful spouse has spent about half an hour putting away all signs of last night's black-out.

Foods By Colors. Next she starts her daily shopping. To the red, blue and pink cards of the sort her husband has taken, she adds a white card for marmalade and sugar, a yellow card for fats, margarine and oil, and a brown card for soap. Not that she will be able to get all the articles she wants; her tradesman may shrug and say, "Sorry, madam, but our new contingent hasn't come as yet."

The color scheme is continued by other citizens standing in line with her. There's the choice of life of the dentist next door; her face turns purple as she curses the war and wishes it were over. There's the young postman's wife; she turns red with anger because the butcher can't supply her. Her husband has been transferred from Poland to the western front, and she wants so badly to have a nice chop for Fritz during his one-day furlough.

Meanwhile the man of the house has reached his office. He tells his secretary to go out and buy some badly-needed towels. "Nothing doing," the fraulein says. "I haven't any Bezugschein."

Another of his peevish. To obtain a "Bezugschein" for towels he must convince a hard-boiled official that the old towel is absolutely unusable.

And no matter how shapely a lady's leg may be if she has one charge of stockings, officials may refuse her authorization to buy a new pair.

This writer knows of a man who asked for a "Bezugschein" for a business suit. The official asked if he had any other suits. "Only one," the man replied. "I have the other one."

Please send a postcard to the author. He will be glad to hear from you.

Shaughnessy Goes To Stanford Post

Former Chicago Mentor Will Succeed Tiny Thornhill

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Calif.—Clark D. Shaughnessy, who was left on the bench when University of Chicago scuttled football, was given a five-year coaching contract at Stanford Thursday.

Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, Stanford president, announced the appointment but did not name the terms. Shaughnessy succeeds Claude E. (Tiny) Thornhill, who sent three straight teams to the Rose Bowl and then skidded to the bottom of the Western football heap.

The stories of Shaughnessy and Thornhill, Chicago and Stanford are remarkably parallel.

The two schools are rich in scholarship and their leaders bend over backward to avoid emphasizing football. In 1929, each school had a disastrous football season.

Both Shaughnessy and Thornhill succeeded "grand old men" of football and inherited good prospects. Shaughnessy took the job of Amos Stagg, who had coached Chicago for 40 years before he was retired.

Thornhill succeeded Glenn S. (Pop) Warner at Stanford.

Shaughnessy took over at Chicago in 1931 after coaching for 12 years, at Tulane, where his teams won 58, lost 27 and tied six games, and for six years at Loyola at New Orleans, where he won 38, lost 16 and tied two.

At Chicago, Shaughnessy's teams won 17, lost 34 and tied four games in seven years. After Chicago won two minor games and took six thumping defeats in 1939, the university trustees voted to abandon intercollegiate football.

Thornhill became head coach at Stanford in 1933, falling heir to Pop Warner's "hot" freshman team. In 1933, 1934 and 1935 the "vowing sophomores" including such players as Bobby Grayson, Bones Hamilton, Monk Manscrip and Bob Reynolds were the terror of the Pacific coast conference.

Shaughnessy got the job at Stanford after the strong candidacies of Buck Shaw at Santa Clara and Bud DeGroot at San Jose and Tex Oliver of Oregon.

The new coach was to arrive here before April 1 when spring practice begins.
